High above the city of Paris rises the bell tower of Notre Dame. Every day the majestic bells ring out, as if by magic. Only a few have seen the mysterious bell ringer, Quasimodo, who lives high up in the tower. This is the tale of Quasimodo, his friends, and his master.

In the picture, count the times you see these characters.

Answers are in the back of the book.

To make his bell tower feel more like home, Quasimodo has filled it with wonderful things he found or made. Can you find these things in Quasimodo's bell tower?

This candelabrum

This clay bowl

This trunk

Wind chime

This goblet

This statue

This wooden carving

This footstool

Quasimodo loves to watch all of the actions in Paris below from the bell tower. Most of all, he wants to go out and join the fun. Today is the biggest celebration of the year, the Festival of Fools. Look around to find these people who are doing the things Quasimodo would like to do if he were out there.

Jacques of hearts

Jacques-o'-lantern

Jacques Sprat

Jacques-of-all-trades

Run, Esmeralda! Dodge and duck.
Use your speed and all your luck!
Frollo wants Esmeralda captured after she helps Quasimodo at the Festival of Fools. Kind-hearted and quick on her feet, Esmeralda is a show-stopper. As Esmeralda runs through the festival, find these guards who want to catch her.

Go back to Paris at war. See if you can find these things that remind us of a peaceful Paris.

A hug
A handshake
A child's toy
A kiss
A tasty dessert
Clopin's puppets
A rose

Esmeralda's funny friends have scattered her things all over the Court of Miracles. Can you find them?

Her tambourine
Her bracelet
Her sparkly scarf
Her cloak
Her collection hat
Her amulet

In the final scene, Quasimodo is so excited he might forget a few things at Notre Dame. Can you make sure he finds them before he leaves?

His drinking cup
His whittling knife
His bowl
His gargoyle carvings
His sparrow friend
His small bell
His amulet

Did you find all the images in the woodcut story? Check and see for yourself.
